

GETS HERO MEDAL, LOSES SACK RACE

Jersey City Youngster Forgets
Honors in Discomfiture
Over Defeat.

STICKS GOLD IN POCKET

Willie Saved Mate in Sewer and Never Told His Parents.

William Sullivan, 13, who rescued Gilford Murphy, 5, from a sewer in Jersey City ten days ago, had to stand out before 2,000 persons in Pershing Stadium, Jersey City, yesterday, while A. Harry Moore, Director of Parks and Public Property, made what Willie thought an unnecessarily long speech in presenting to him a gold medal.

Commissioner Moore explained to Willie that the Jersey City Rotary Club, which has a special fondness for youthful heroes, had decided to strike off the gold medal and present it to him for saving the Murphy boy. But Willie didn't pay much attention to what Mr.
Moore was saying, for he had failed to come first in the fifty yard sack race.
And the intercollegiate field games are much more interesting to Willie than talking about pulling little boys out of sewers.

"I didn't win that sack race," he said, "but I came third. I wanted to come first. But I've qualified for the finals, all right, and when the last race is run next Saturday I'll be out in front."

Willie lives with his parents in 287 Magnolia avenue, Jersey City. They didn't know he had saved the Murphy boy from drowning until a week after it had happened and the news came out through his teacher. Likewise, when Willie left Pershing Stadium yesterday afternoon he pulled the medal off and put it in his pocket. His mother probably will find it when she goes through his clothes this morning.

GUARD CITY'S HEALTH IN MILK POOLING ROW

Officials Watch Supply to See It Is Well Iced.

The squabble in the milk industry up-State between "poolers" and "antipoolers" is being closely watched by New York Health Department officials with a view to protecting this city against impure milk. The "poolers" represented in the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association are said to have launched a boycott against the distributing companies which have refused to sign a new contract.

The result is that pool farmers have to truck their milk considerable distances to receiving stations of other dealers who have agreed to the pooling plan. On these long hauls the Board of Health has taken steps to see the milk is properly iced.

MRS. AIMEE GOURAUD SUED BY SECRETARY

Her Relation Not That of Employer, Says Defense.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
Copyright, 1922, by THE NEW YORK HERALD.
New York Herald Bureau, Paris, May 6.

Mrs. Aimee Crocker Gauraud, whose adventures of one kind or another have kept European and American gossips busy for years, again bathed in the limelight this afternoon when sued in the Pusey Court by a former secretary, Count Ferri Pisan, for failure to pay $800, alleged to be due him in salary.

Mrs. Gauraud was represented by one of the ablest lawyers of the Paris bar, who insisted that her relations with the Count were not those of employer and employee, and that the Count had been turned out of her house because he introduced other women without her permission, as well as acting in an insulting manner toward her.

The Count's lawyer declared that his client had met Mrs. Gauraud in the United States three years ago, but did not become her secretary until her last visit to America, at a salary of $150 a month. According to Mrs. Gauraud's lawyer, she paid all the Count's expenses and provided even his clothing, but without a hard and fast contract being signed.

The Count is insisting, however, that he did not leave her companionship willingly, but was thrown out when he protested against Mrs. Gauraud sheltering an alleged adventurer named Gosorky.

The tangle proved to be too much for French justice to-day, and the court reserved decision until next week.
